CALL FOR PROPOSALS

The Center for Teaching and Learning and our partners from WashU Libraries, the Office of the Provost, and Arts & Sciences Computing are excited to announce the next iTeach Conference on January 7th, 2026. This one-day conference will be held in the Brown School's Hillman Hall on the Danforth Campus. This conference brings together faculty and instructional staff from all schools at the University for cross-disciplinary discussions on teaching, and research on teaching and learning. It is an opportunity to share innovative teaching strategies and leave inspired to continue your excellent work in the classroom.

We will offer a variety of formats to share teaching practices with colleagues and welcome contributions that can appeal to a wide range of interests. Proposal deadline is Wednesday, October 8th at 5p. The proposal form can be found on the iTeach 2024 website.

- Conference-paper-style presentation (15 minutes)
  Three of these presentations will be included in each conference time block. The sessions are presenter-focused and centered on a concise topic. There will be limited time for audience interaction beyond a shared question time at the conclusion of the session.

- Panel Presentation (50 minutes)
  Propose your own panel of three 15-minute conference-style presentations (see above) or an interactive panel with a moderator and panelists discussing a teaching-related topic.

- Poster
  Posters provide a medium to share a teaching-related innovation in a visual format. There will be an opportunity at the conference for poster authors to interact with attendees in front of their posters. We also welcome relevant posters that have been previously presented in other settings.

- Interactive Workshop (50 minutes)
  These sessions for sharing teaching innovations should include elements of audience participation and hands-on activities. They may involve more than one facilitator.

The application process for all presentation types consists of a presentation description of up to 150 words. Additional space is provided to include any other relevant logistic information (e.g. co-presenters, special presentation needs, etc.). Applications are open to WashU affiliates only.
